

Errors & Omissions Coverage for Bookkeepers

A bookkeeper missed a deadline for filing taxes, but does not realize it. The IRS imposes late filing penalties and interest on the unpaid taxes owed by the business. The mistake also triggers an audit finding understated income. Now the client is suing her. The insurance agent for the bookkeeper said General Liability insurance does not cover it. Now she is responsible for the loss – but she didn't have to be.

That's why you need Errors and Omissions (E&O) insurance coverage from FoxPro Defender.

- Affordable coverage protects your business if you are accused of negligence. Rates as low as $625 a year with taxes and fees.
- Provides financial protection if you have to pay a settlement as well as legal expenses.
- Coverage for Auditors, Estate Services, Accounting Managers, Finance Clerks, Accounts Payable Clerks, and Finance Managers.
- Our carrier Fortegra is rated "A-" (Excellent) A.M. Best for its financial stability and claims-paying ability.

Advocacy defense from nationally recognized law firm Wilson Elser

The financial impact of an E&O claim can wipe out personal and business assets. If the allegations prove to be groundless, you can incur substantial legal fees.

- Wilson Elser specializes in professional liability – unlike most local law firms without its experience.
- Risk Management Hotline to answer your concerns.
- Experienced lawyers work to resolve matters before they become claims.
